THE LAST THURSDAY IN NOVEMBER FOR 125 YEARS

By Boston English Head Coach Keith Parker
from 1980 thru 2009

I enjoyed a lifetime of memories and 30 years of true excitement on THANKSGIVING MORNING!!!!!!

To wake up on thanksgiving morning in 1954 at the age of 10 and turn on my parents black and white tv and watch the English/Latin Game on channel 7 being played at Harvard Stadium I thought was the most exciting part of the morning! For several Thanksgivings watching that game was very exciting to see all the people in the stands and the excitement of the game gave me a lasting memory which I still cherish to this day! Fast forward to Thanksgiving 1980, my first year as Head coach of the Blue and Blue we entered Thanksgiving with an undefeated record, but we needed a win in order to play in the Superbowl! We had already won English's first City championship in 14 years and we had High Hopes for a victory!! We lost 20-0 and although disappointed I realized that to compete with Latin and give ourselves a chance to win we had to upgrade our non-league schedule to a higher level of competition! We only had to wait one more year and on Thanksgiving in 1981 English came away with a hard earned victory by the score of 14-2, It was our first win in this traditional game since 1967. English had to wait another 16 years to win again! On Thanksgiving morning in 1997 we brought an undefeated team with a record of 10-0 onto the field that day and came away with an exciting 8-6 victory!! In between 1980 and 1997 there were several very exciting games that come to mind for me! We lost the 1985 Snow Bowl 10-6, and in the late eighty's we lost several games in a row by a touchdown or less! We were close but no cigar!! We were good, but not good enough!! In 1993, we trailed 7-0 late in the game when we scored with about 2 minutes left!! I decided to go for the 2 pt extra point and the win!! Latin stopped the try and we lost 7-6!! We came up short again!! The next week in our superbowl game we attempted two 2-pt tries and we were successful on both tries in helping us win the Division 5 Superbowl!! Almost everyone would have gladly exchanged one of those conversions to have happened the week before to be able to beat Latin!!

I also remember Coach Paul Costello's last game in this rivalry in 2000! We gave all we had in a 14-0 loss!! I remember bringing my team across the field as the first half ended and I had my team line up and shake Coach Costello's hand and we presented him with a plaque citing ENGLISH HIGH'S respect for him! He was a pleasure to coach against for 22 years!! I believe the year was 2001 or 2002 when THE GAME returned to HARVARD STADIUM, Latin's NEW/OLD coach John McDonough was now at the helm of Latin School! Coach Mac was always a true adversary, and I want to thank him for understanding the trials and times we were experiencing at English High! Beginning around 2002 until my final game in 2009 English had gone through quite a change with the population of the school going from 1,800 kids to about 700 kids during that period! I spent the last 6 or seven years of my years at English just attempting to keep the Football program above water and to try to assemble a heartfelt effort on THANKSGIVING morning at Harvard Stadium! My 2006 team gave a great effort as we were able to get inside the 10 yard line on 4 different occasions only to be turned away on each attempt, we came to play that day, but came up short in a 14-0 loss!

Hopefully, as time goes by, English can rise up again and give the followers of the BLUE and BLUE a few more proud moments on THANKSGIVING MORNING!! I want to thank and recognize the following players who over my career were contributors to the ENGLISH FOOTBALL program, it was their leadership and effort that helped the BLUE and BLUE be the BEST that it could be!!

I had the privilege of coaching and guiding numerous young men over my thirty years at the helm of the BLUE AND BLUE and every single one of them made a contribution to the history of English football, yes some contributed more than others, but in the end we were always as good as we could be!! I apologize if I left anyone's name out but some of the contributor's to my years at, and the success we enjoyed at the BIG E were the following: 1980, Andrew Woods, Lance Selmon, Troy Morrison, 1981 Derrick Willis, Jerome Wells, Paul Murray 1982 Elroy Williams, 1985 Lazar Franklin, Chris Brown, Darren Goss and Roscoe Curry. 1986 Deondre Kennard, 1988 David Harris. 1989 Timmy Lambright, Clarzell Pearl, and Reggie Turner, 1990 Tracy Carter, Joe Tye, 1991 Farouk Brown, 1993 Michael Massey, Rey Vega, Tyrone Carter, and Damon Brown 1997 Conroy Whyte Teddy Williams, Ishmael Brown, and Rodd Hunt. 1998 John Rice JR., 2000 Ethan Brown, 2004 Nelson Montas, 2005 Carlos Restrepo, 2009 Martin Kitchens and Melvin Booker! Unfortunately, I have left off the above list, many names of importance, as all of my players were important to me and I will include their names in my book when it is published!! I had the pleasure of coaching all of my players for thirty years in this great traditional rivalry and win (Not as much as we all would have liked) or lose we as a group, always held out hope that this would be our year!! May that attitude continue for years to come!! Thanks for the MEMORIES, COACH PK

I had the honor and privilege to coach thirty two of the rivalry games between Boston Latin School and English High, in 1969 and 1970, as an assistant coach and 1971-2000 as Head Coach. The game is special, not only for its long tradition, but due to the fact that it is a neighbor against neighbor. All of the players on the teams live in Boston which makes the rivalry such a great tradition. The fact that it is played on Thanksgiving before a large crowd makes it seem like the equivalent to a high school super bowl game.

In this short article, I am unable to give the credit that is deserved to all of my players. I am extremely proud of how they played for the Purple and White on the field. The school spirit at our rallies was able to lift the team as we prepared to play the next day. With the addition of the cheerleaders and our new nickname, the "Wolfpack," in 1969, Boston Latin was given a mascot that both the players and the students were able to identify with.

My introduction to the rivalry in 1970 and 1971 came with two dramatic games. In 1970 we were coming off an undefeated season going into the game at Harvard Stadium. It was a cold fall day and the ball was covered in grass dust, causing multiple fumbles on both sides. At the outset, we were losing 8-6, our undefeated season hung in the balance. Quarterback John Casey was hit hard on our third down, forcing us to punt. The Wolfpack defense was determined not to let English move the ball forward. We succeeded and forced English to punt with less than a minute to play. We had the play ready to go when we went on offense, a sideline and up to our All-Scholastic wide receiver, Fran Cronin. The ball was snapped and John Casey dropped back and threw a 55 yard bomb, hitting Fran Cronin in stride for the winning touchdown with just 45 seconds left on the clock. It was a great effort performed by a great team.

In 1971 all of the Thanksgiving Day games were cancelled except for the Latin vs. English and Beverly vs. Salem games. The weather was awful, just short of being a hurricane. Torrents of rain and high winds caused great difficulty for all of the players. There were multiple fumbles and interceptions on both sides. With less than a minute and a half to go, the game remained scoreless. Latin punted and put English deep in their end. Our defense remained determined, not allowing English to move the ball forward. On the fourth down, with two and a half yards to go, English decided to rush the ball but was stopped by our defense on their twenty seven yard line with just eight seconds remaining. With time running out, quarterback Billy King threw a twenty seven yard touchdown to sophomore slot back Steve Mahoney, winning the game for Boston Latin. Due to the weather, the game was over without a try for a conversion. It was a thrilling 6-0 victory for the Wolfpack.

There were so many great games, that I can't possibly list them all. In 1972 halfback Bill Burnham scored three touchdowns. He went on to set all kinds of New England football records at the University of New Hampshire. In 1974 Earle McCreary and Frank DeLuca rushed for 323 yards, with McCreary scoring three touchdowns. Latin beat English 11-6 in 1975 after QB Mark Michalowski's fumble rolled into the endzone and wide receiver Steve Wool beat out three English defenders to recover the ball. The next year "The Crunch Bunch" ended the season with a 23-0 victory, bringing them to a 7-1-1 record. Running backs Oscar Weekes and Barrando Butler powered Latin victory over English in 1978, ending the season 9-1. In 1984, Latin won it's first Dual County League Championship, ending the season with a Thanksgiving game in which Quarterback Shawn Kennedy threw his 51st career touchdown, and the Latin defense picked five interceptions. Both teams fought hard in 1985, but Latin came out on top 10-6, after tackle Paul Toomey sprained his ankle in the first quarter, and finished the game on a snow-covered field. In 1986 Captain Louis Izzi led the Wolpack to victory in the 100th Rivalry game of the long series. In 1987, the DCL Champion Latin team finished the season undefeated after a determined English squad kept the score close. In 1989, Captain Matt Small caught a long touchdown pass with a broken wrist, pulling the game of out English's reach. Adilson Cardoso missed eight games of the 1990 season with a broken wrist, but rushed for 120 yard and two touchdowns for the win. Rick Newman's 22 carries, 174 yards, and four touchdowns led Latin to a 41-0 victory. In 1993, Boston English was superbowl bound. Wide receiver Marlon Benjamin's short reception and long run for Latin's only touchdown was the game winner. English went on to be superbowl champions. In 1994, The running back Kevin Fidalgo scored four touchdowns and ran for 266 yards for the win. In 1995, Kevin Fidalgo scored three touchdowns to give him 25 TD's for the year, which gave him the EMass scoring title. Kevin was tragically killed in an occupational accident five years ago. In 1996, halfback Hallam Homes rushed for 185 yards and three touchdowns and the 31-6 win. In 1998, running back Bayo Owolewa rushed for 160 yards and two touchdowns to lead the "Pack." In 1999, Bayo Owolewa scored five touchdowns and rushed for 216 yards to give Latin a 42-20 victory.

The 2000 season was my last and it turned out to be a very difficult year. Freshman John Yessayan passed away on the field in front of the whole squad. Suddenly football wasn't the most important thing and the players were affected by it. We went into a tailspin. The team tried hard but the victories eluded us. In the Latin-English game, the team rose to the occasion and provided me my final high school victory. I will always be indebted to them for that.

The end of the game was filled with emotion for me. My former players from the 60's, 70's, 80's and 90's and coaches and faculty formed a receiving line that stretched from the 50-yard line all the way back to the BU Case Center. Coach Keith Parker, whom I admire greatly, brought his English squad out to the 50-yard line and presented me a plaque and all the English players shook my hand. It was a class act.

In closing, I would like to thank the three Headmasters under whom I served, all my players, cheerleaders, wolf mascots, stepsquads and last but not least all the assistant coaches I worked with. BOMB THE BLUE!!!

ENGLISH HIGH SCHOOL HEADMASTER NARCISSE LETTER • 2011

Across the country, but especially in New England and particularly in Boston, the schedule for Thanksgiving Day is determined by Arch Rivals. We all know where we are going to be at 10:00AM on this Thanksgiving morning and on every Thanksgiving morning, rain or shine, mild or freezing, in body or in spirit (or both). We will be at the stadium no matter what has happened over the past weeks. Season records are irrelevant. The winner of the Big Game can claim a successful season and earn a year's worth of bragging right. The renewal of traditional rivalries is as much a part of Thanksgiving as the turkey itself. So the day's Big Dinner is NOT served at noon in Boston. That must wait until after the game.

The Thanksgiving Game provides us with an experience that is quietly vanishing from the American scene. We are in the moment, all together, watching the same thing at the same time. We are partisans celebrating one another's partisanship: we are fans. We care, really care, who wins. We do not need text messaging, cell phones, Ipods or anything extraneous to live this moment to its fullest. We are sharing in something that is greater than ourselves, and we know it. For about two hours, we are immersed in the game, the tradition, and the camaraderie.

After the game, on the way home, our appetites build and we start thinking seriously about the feast ahead, about the Great Gathering of relatives and friends.

But not right now. First things first. At 10:00AM sharp, we will be standing up for the kickoff.

Retrospective on the 125th Anniversary of the EHS vs. BLS Football Game

Why do high schools play sport contests? Perhaps, it provides a healthy diversion from the rigors of academics as well as the obvious physical benefits of disciplined exercise. But why play for so many years (125), even when lopsided outcomes might be anticipated? It has to be more than the tradition of the game on Thanksgiving morning. Tradition may be part of the answer but there are years when, as a former football co-captain, all-city QB on an undefeated team ranked #4 in the state, I wonder how players feel, knowing they may be outgunned.

In sport, there is always the possibility of an upset. But turning the tables only captures part of the reason. Sports themselves---the trying to accomplish something with a group of teammates or peers in any sport. Sport requires consensus building, camaraderie, support, exhilaration and even criticism. These may be emotions of sport participation but they instill life's values as well.

So sport can be looked at as a metaphor for life, gives us life-lessons even when, in retrospect, we might have toiled in vain. One does not always play on the first string. One is not always the team star but maybe a role player. One could be the hero or goat of an outcome. But one thing a player has to do is earn teammates' respect by doing the requisites, effort and repetitive practice submitting to the team whole approach. One must put in his/her time. By so doing they focus on the doing; the outcomes, good and bad, come with the territory of playing any sport.

Through the effort/sweat, time commitments and sacrifices, one is learning life's values albeit on a field or a court. All the parents and administrators in the world cannot teach or instill the sense of community/team spirit felt in pulling for the same goal as a team member. The lessons may be ineffable but they are there.

The first EHS vs. BLS football game I played in, I was a 14-year old, 147-pound sophomore QB running into Harvard Stadium filled with 24,000 fans. It was 1964, I was back-up QB on a decent team but not as strong as BLS that day. We lost that game 24-22 on a last second, barely-missed field goal attempt. But we almost upset the favored team. In the following years, I started at QB with a memorable undefeated season almost marred by a BLS upset of us that year...1966.

Life's uncertainties are mitigated by the lessons and values of sports. I would never give up my experiences on the sports fields. I hope you would never give up yours.

BOSTON LATIN SCHOOL
FOUNDED IN 1635

Thanksgiving, 1887. Grover Cleveland is President of the United States, Oliver Ames Governor of the Commonwealth, and Hugh O'Brien is the first Irish Catholic Mayor of the City of Boston. The Boston Bean Eaters, who play in the South End Grounds, finished 5th in the National League standings. The Boston Globe, in its 15th year, can be purchased for 4 cents.

The English High School and The Boston Latin School share a building in the South End of Boston. The schoolboys begin a tradition based on sportsmanship and competition, and play the first Latin vs. English Football Game!

Thanksgiving, 2011. We now live under the leadership of Barack Obama, Deval Patrick and Thomas Menino. A Head Master from New York reigns at English, and a woman at BLS! We read The Globe on our phones and the Boston Red Sox finished in 5th place in the American League. (Well, maybe not everything has changed!)

Over the past century and a quarter, the student-athletes of our historic institutions have met on Thanksgiving Day to continue this remarkable tradition. Young men who have played in this contest have gone on to contribute in significant ways to the development of our city, our commonwealth, and our nation.

Today, we celebrate the athletes, the coaches, the musicians, the families, the teachers and the alumni of two of the oldest schools in America. We are thankful that we are part of such a significant tradition.

Happy Thanksgiving!

LATIN FIGHT SONG

On the Field of Many Colors
Latin's banners fly Cheer on,
 cheer like volley thunder
Echoes to the sky
See the Latin team advancing
Gaining more and more
So we'll fight, fight, fight
With all our might
Dear Old Latin evermore.
